

VISUAL

PACK

CAFE:

Homes for Hope cafe is located at the James COrd Building, Birmingham.

Homes For Hope cafe welcomes you into its' sophisticated yet welcoming space. Wether it is coming in for a coffee, catching up with friends or just wanting some down time. Homes for Hope cafe can cater for each individuals needs.

With its simple yet modern aesthetic, it will be the go to place for a catch up with friend or a place to just be alone. Its' luxurious aesthetic will almost make you feel like you in a facy cafe in Central London (just not with the extortanet prices)

THE NOOK:

The Nook is part of the residential community hub created within the site. It provides an outdoor environment indoors. Saves you getting wet in the rain with this British weather.

The environment created by the nook is calm and peaceful but also welcoming and just an overall place to have some fun too. It has bench and lamposts to give that outdoor atmosphere. As well as plenty of artificial grass to use as you wish.

However, it is only accessible to residents that stay at Homes for Hope, but no worries visitors are welcomed.

THE FOOD COURT:

The food court, located on the first floor is home to some of the best food market available. It is hosted by off site vendors as well as people who live within Homes for Hope looking to share their creativity through food.

Not only is it mainly about the food, it is another space to socialise and hang out with friends and family at any time. It has a casual but luxurious atmosphere that makes it the must eat at place.

Food is made on site with the kitchen facilities provided, there is also an indoor garden and green grocers to get those extra secret ingredients when required.

THE HOMES:

Although Homes for Hope prides itself in all the extra facilities it provides its users and the public. Its main focus is the residential homes that are designed for the people who need them the most.

There are three different types of accommodation. Here is type A Type A accommodation has been designed with students and or single people in mind. It includes a kitchen, living room, bedroom and ensuite bathroom.

Homes for Hope residential sector wants to provide a luxurious aesthetic at a lower cost. Although each house comes decorated there is still space for personal touches.

THE HOMES:

Although Homes for Hope prides itself in all the extra facilities it provides its users and the public. Its main focus is the residential homes that are designed for the people who need them the most.

There are three different types of accommodation. Here is type B.

Type B accommodation is a replica in layout to Type A. However, Homes for Hope like to be inclusive to everyone, therefore this housing type is designed with less able people in mind.

The rooms included are a kitchen, living room, bedroom and disabled accessible bathroom as well.

Keeping to the same aesthetics of that luxurious feel, nothing changes here, all finishes have been thought through with the users kept in mind.

THE HOMES:

Although Homes for Hope prides itself in all the extra facilities it provides its users and the public. Its main focus is the residential homes that are designed for the people who need them the most.

There are three different types of accommodation. Here is type C

Type C accommodation is the larger of all three. It is designed with young couples, single parent families or people that just want a bit more space.

The rooms included are a kitchen, living room, toilet and bedroom with a walk in wardrobe and ensuite bathroom. The bedroom has a double bed included.

Again all rooms are decorated with the same furnishings however, personal touches can be added at the users pleasure.

